Hello

I sincerely hope the BCUC will take into consideration the final cost of Site C and not the $8.8 or $9 billion figure. From a broad range of studies conducted in different parts of the world it is a known fact that dam construction projects like this run anywhere from 50% to 90% cost over-run. Very basic math tells us that the cost could be from $13.5 billion to $17 billion. Projects like these never come in on budget. It doesn't seem to matter what is being constructed.

Why is the public "fed" misleading figures ??????????

Common sense should tell us that it is better to throw in the towel at $2 billion than at $13.5 – $17 billion.

Sincerely

C.D.Neal
